

Q1. Will construction contractors partnered with the Project Elevate architectural/engineering consultant team be eligible to bid or contract on construction phase services?

A1. No, to avoid any unfair advantage, a construction contractor that is under contract with the design phase firm for this project will be considered a member of the design team and excluded from submitting or bidding on construction phase services for Project Elevate.

Q: In section 5.5 Design and Construction Methods of the outlined proposal, the RFQ asks firms to attach quality control procedures for construction documents, drawings and specifications. Is this included in the 3-page limit in that section?

A: The firm's QC procedures may be attached as an appendix to the document without counting towards section page limitations.
